

Abstract

A user equipment related multicast/multicast/broadcast multimedia service information present in a serving radio network controller can be coupled with the multicast/broadcast multimedia service controlling radio network controller service context in the corresponding controlling radio network controller over the interface between the radio network controller entities.